

Director's Report
July 2014

Symphony

I met with Chris Harris of SirsiDynix at ALA and we discussed a new contract. I expect to receive something in writing but the terms are very positive and the long term sticking point regarding costs to add new members appears resolved at this point.

We continue to load more and more MARC records for digital content. Although we are providing access to these collections, the variety of collections and need for a singular access point makes solutions such as eResource Central very attractive and something we should seriously consider.

The planned survey for our members is undergoing final review and will be out soon.

eLibraryNJ

LMxAC convened a meeting of the eLibraryNJ membership July 15th to discuss the contract renewal terms from Overdrive. The consensus of the group is to review the services also offered by Baker & Taylor, which we will do during a demo on August 13th. Overdrive will also make a presentation that day. On August 14th we will see demos from 3M Cloud and Recorded Books One Click Digital.

EBSCO

I forwarded to the Board a proposal from EBSCO for access to its public library ebook collection. I think, at this cost, it is something the Board should consider.

Delivery Task Force

At the request of the LibraryLinkNJ Board, the Delivery Task Force has developed a set of proposals regarding adjusting delivery services based more on volume. A delivery RFP will be out soon and negotiations will begin for the next delivery contract. I expect that these new policies will impact a few of our members, in most cases by dropping a day of delivery. Not many members will be impacted by this so at this time I think we should wait and see if these changes are implemented.

Director's Report
July 2014

Symphony

I met with Chris Harris of SirsiDynix at ALA and we discussed a new contract. I expect to receive something in writing but the terms are very positive and the long term sticking point regarding costs to add new members appears resolved at this point.

We continue to load more and more MARC records for digital content. Although we are providing access to these collections, the variety of collections and need for a singular access point makes solutions such as eResource Central very attractive and something we should seriously consider.

The planned survey for our members is undergoing final review and will be out soon.

eLibraryNJ

LMxAC convened a meeting of the eLibraryNJ membership July 15th to discuss the contract renewal terms from Overdrive. The consensus of the group is to review the services also offered by Baker & Taylor, which we will do during a demo on August 13th. Overdrive will also make a presentation that day. On August 14th we will see demos from 3M Cloud and Recorded Books One Click Digital.

EBSCO

I forwarded to the Board a proposal from EBSCO for access to its public library ebook collection. I think, at this cost, it is something the Board should consider.

Delivery Task Force

At the request of the LibraryLinkNJ Board, the Delivery Task Force has developed a set of proposals regarding adjusting delivery services based more on volume. A delivery RFP will be out soon and negotiations will begin for the next delivery contract. I expect that these new policies will impact a few of our members, in most cases by dropping a day of delivery. Not many members will be impacted by this so at this time I think we should wait and see if these changes are implemented.